CHAMBERLAIN

Chamberlain Says:

"Our final answer has been handed to Hitler . . . We wait his reply . . . I cannot say the danger of war has receded . . . We shall hope for peace . . . Our obligations to Poland will be carried out . . . The whole of our fighting fleet is ready at a moment's notice to take war dispositions . . . Air defense has been placed in instant readiness . . . None of us has any doubt where our duty lies. There is no difference of opinion amongst us and no weakening of determination. We are ready for any eventualities . . . We shall hold fast the line."

WAR PERIL ACUTE, PARLIAMENT TOLD

By CHARLES A. SMITH
International News Service Staff Correspondent

LONDON, Aug. 29—The danger of world war still is acute and the sole hope of peace hinges on the attitude of Adolf Hitler, Prime Minister Chamberlain told the House of Commons today.

In a historic address again warning Nazi Germany that Britain will fight in defense of Poland, Chamberlain reiterated that 'catastrophe is not yet upon us" but emphasized the whole armed forces of England were prepared for instant combat.

Here were the main points set forth by the 70-year-old prime minister as he told a tense House of Commons and the entire world that the spectre of a new general war could not be laid until Hitler gives the word.

1—The danger of war has not receded.

2—Britain remains determined to fight if Poland is attacked and the entire British navy and air force have been placed in readiness for instant war.

3—Upon the nature of Hitler's reply to British proposals, now being formulated in Berlin, the issue of peace or war depends.

4—The Fuehrer has emphasized the urgency of a solution of the German-Polish problem.

5—Hitler desires a lasting Anglo-German agreement, and this wish is shared by England.

6—Everything hinges upon the manner in which the immediate differences between Poland and Germany can be handled.

Foreign Secretary Viscount Halifax made a similar statement to the House of Lords, and Parliament then adjourned until next Tuesday, subject to recall in emergency.

'No Rations' Wins Cheers

LONDON, Aug. 29 (INS)—People in Great Britain may have been inconvenienced by the government's war preparedness moves "but at least we have not had to begin here by issuing ration cards," Prime Minister Neville Chamberlain told the House of Commons today.

Chamberlain's demeanor was firm and assured, almost buoyant at several times during his address. He was greeted with unusually warm and unanimous cheers.

At a Glance

Members of the British Parliament heard Prime Minister Neville Chamberlain declare today there still is danger of war, that the sole hope of peace depends upon Chancellor Hitler and that Britain will fight in defense of Poland.

Word from Berlin indicated Germany remained optimistic regarding peace negotiations as the German press urged Britain and France to compel Poland to surrender the corridor. Hitler's verbal answer to Britain's note was flown to London but British Ambassador Sir Nevile Henderson remained in the Nazi capitol.

H. R. Knickerbocker, International News Service ace correspondent, in Paris keeping his finger on the throbbing war pulse, says the conflict, if it is coming, will not occur until next Saturday at the earliest; reports Russia's studied hesitancy over signing the Nazi-Soviet pact has Hitler guessing.

Poles blamed Germans for a new series of subversive acts reported seven killed in a bomb blast and other instances of terrorism.

Franc continued her mobilization and preparations for war. Hears King Leopold of Belgium has offered himself as a mediator, a role which the rest of Europe believes is also sought by Mussolini.

See Hitler Losing By Delay; Stalin's 'Balk' Irks Nazis

PARIS, Aug. 29—Every hour that passes is an hour lost to Adolf Hitler in this supreme moment when the war

But nevertheless five reasons appear today to justify the belief—shared among authoritative allied observers—that catastrophe will not occur at any rate before the end of the week.

Thus for the hundredth time since Hitler came to power the world once more witnesses the zero hour set a few minutes ahead.

SOVIET DELAY PUZZLING

Reasons for this feeble gleam of hope which comes like a respite to a prisoner under sentence of death are the following:

1—The military situation in Germany, as I described it yesterday, remains, in fact, a shell, and the Reich is unlikely to strike at Poland before bringing her forces on the eastern frontier to 60 divisions. Military observers today believe it will take Germany until Saturday to do this, rather than Thursday, as was first considered possible.

2—The steamship Bremen will not reach the asylum of German waters before Saturday, and this valuable vessel would amply be worth Germany's delaying action for a few days.

3—Moscow's decision to postpone ratification of the Russo-German pact until Thursday at the earliest has puzzled Berlin as well as other capitals, where various explanations are current, but none is favorable to Germany.

STALIN "SHOWS" HITLER

The most popular is that Stalin wishes to await outbreak of war before ratifying and thus keep his hands free to supply the allies if he likes. But this is wholly incompatible with the view that the Soviet Union and Germany secretly agreed to partition Poland, which is the view generally accepted in Paris and London.

The most likely explanation of the Moscow move is that Stalin, after having hastened to sign the Russo-German pact, wishes now by delaying ratification to put Hitler in his place and remind him that, after all, he is dealing with an independent Russia which retains and will continue to retain its own power of decision.

Whatever the correct explanation may be, it is certain the Moscow decision adds to Hitler's un-

Text of Chamberlain Talk:

LONDON, Aug. 29 (AP)—The text of Prime Minister Chamberlain's remarks to the House of Commons today follows.

Since the House met on Thursday there has been little change in the main features of the situation.

The catastrophe, as I said then, is not yet upon us.

I cannot say that the danger of it has yet in any way receded.

In these circumstances it might perhaps seem it was unnecessary to ask to meet again before the day which had been fixed, but in those like this we have felt that it was right that the House should be kept informed as far as possible, continuously informed of all the developments of the situation as they take place.

That will continue to be the principle which will guide us for further meetings of this House. There is one thing I would like to say at this moment with regard to

BOMBS KILL 7 IN POLAND

WARSAW, Aug. 29 (AP)—Poles blamed Germans for a new series of subversive acts in this war threatened country today while the press unanimously branded as "lies" Adolf Hitler's declarations that his countrymen are the victims of terrorism in Poland.

Seven persons were reported killed in an explosion which wrecked the railroad station at Tarnow in southern Poland. Police arrested two Germans.

Herbert Friedel, Breslau, German, university student, was arrested at Kalewice after allegedly confessing he left three bags containing bombs in a room at Biala Si'esia, which later exploded.

A time bomb was found on the railroad track between Kluj and Krakow before it exploded.

Warsaw's morning papers devoted front pages to statements and editorial comments charging Germany's allegations of mistreatment of Germans in Poland merely were attempts to stir up hatred of Poland among the German people and to justify German aggression.

With sea traffic out of Gdynia, Poland's only seaport, imperiled and communication with other parts cut off by a German blockade of railways linking Poland with the outside world, through transportation was at a virtual standstill.

AIR SERVICE DOUBLED

The only rail lines still open were through the Baltic countries, Soviet Russia, Rumania and Hungary, requiring extremely long and roundabout routings.

Airplane service continued from Warsaw to Budapest with bookings so heavy the service had been doubled in both directions.

By JAMES F. McENANEY

While America's warriors of past and present mustered together along Marlborough st. and Commonwealth ave. to form the greatest parade line in the 40-year history of the Veterans of Foreign Wars, delegates at the first business meeting of the National Encampment heard stirring neutrality and national defense pleas from civil and military leaders of the United States.

Outside, the tramping feet of 50,000 veterans, regular army troops, national guardsmen, and other detachments from the nation's armed forces of past and future national emergencies tramped in time to the strains of military tunes from the instruments of 125 bands and scores of drum and bugle detachments.

Within the armory, National Commander-in-Chief Eugene I. Van Antwerp, of Detroit, was rendering an account of his year's stewardship of the organization made up of men who have followed the flag to foreign shores in time of war.

The Commander outlined, too, the objectives for which the V. F. W. will reach during the coming year—the most important of which, in view of the strained world situation, was strict and continued neutrality for the United States.

At the same time, Rear Admiral Yates Stirling, U. S. N., Ret., served a grave warning on the gathering that the United States must, in order to safeguard her security, build up a "two-ocean" Navy amply strong to protect us, both in the Atlantic and the Pacific.

SOUNDS WARNING

With war threatening to burst loose over Europe at any moment, America cannot forever rely on the British and French navies to protect her Atlantic coast, the Admiral emphasized.

"In this upside-down world today, the United States cannot build too great a fleet and air force," he declared.

"The money spent will give a return to happiness, prosperity, and security, and in all the other know benefits of peace. Our great fleet will be looked upon by posterity as the 'happy warrior' who kept the world in order and prevented insanity from hurl-

MIRIAM HOPKINS TO SEEK DIVORCE

By LOUELLA O. PARSONS

HOLLYWOOD, Aug. 29—Miriam Hopkins and Anatole Litvak have finally decided the only possible way to happiness is via the divorce courts.

I had hoped they might settle their difficulties and Miriam said today that until a few days ago it seemed as if the whole thing would be worked out satisfactorily. But because she is a young lady who knows what she wants and he is a young man of equally positive opinions, she will seek her freedom in Reno.

Accompanied by Kay Francis and Michael, her adopted son, she flew to the famous Nevada city where so many marriages are ended, to take up her residence.

I believe that her director husband is really in love with her, but of course she knows best and she says with two pictures to make for the Warners and one for Samuel Goldwyn, she feels she must be free to live her own life.

She tells me that she and Litvak have been unhappy for a year and a half and that she feels both will be better apart. There is no other man in her life and no other woman in his but each has the urge to live independently and without the restrictions that marriage must necessarily impose on them.

BIGAMY CHARGED IN WIFE-SLAYING

An astounding story of murder, committed allegedly to cover up a bigamous life, was unfolded by police today in patching together the checkered life of Ferdinand Paarand, 25-year-old Chelsea "sand hog."

The one-time seaman, self-confessed slayer, strangled his auburn-haired wife, Edna, to hide their marriage of bigamy, according to Sergt. Detective Harry Breen of the Metropolitan police.

Inspector William Cunliff, like-wise disclosed that Paarand had told him that he was the father of an unmarried New York woman's three-year-old child and that he had constantly kept in touch with her.

TELLS OF MARRIAGE

The woman, a 26-year-old nurse, came to Boston last night and, according to the Metropolitan authorities, declared that she was legally married to Paarand in Brooklyn, N. Y., four years ago and after the birth of their son, he went to sea and deserted her.

Inspector Cunliff said that Paarand's story of the unmarried woman was told in an effort to avoid charges of bigamy.

Metropolitan police also questioned a 17-year-old Chelsea girl, who they said had gone out occasionally with the former seaman.

But police believe that the woman whose body was washed ashore at Revere did know the story and that the knowledge led to her death.

WED WITHOUT DIVORCE

Letters found in Paarand's home gave police the clue leading to New York and the woman whom he allegedly never divorced before taking a new wife.

These letters told of the progress of their son and discussed family affairs. When the police talked with Mrs. Paarand she assured them that she was the wife of Paarand and had borne a son to him. She also said there had never been a divorce.

During the questioning of Paarand when he was stoutly denying knowledge of how Edna went to her death the police are alleged to have drawn a confession from him by threatening to bring his wife from New York to confront him.

"I did not believe she was his wife, but the 'other woman' in the case," Paarand paled and became almost frantic.

"Don't drag her into it," he pleaded. "I did it. Take me out of here and I'll tell you everything." It was then, police say, that he confessed to the crime.

U. S. HOLDS 17 OF BREMEN'S PASSENGERS

BULLETINS

NEW YORK, Aug. 29 (INS)—Seventeen passengers aboard the North German Lloyd liner Bremen were whisked to Ellis Island for investigation today as federal agents prowled outside decks and the interior, down to the holds, of the luxury liner now held in port by an unexpected ruling from Washington.

NEW YORK, Aug. 29 (AP)—The giant Nazi liner Bremen, under orders to return immediately to Germany, was held at her pier today by command of the U. S. Treasury Department pending a thorough inspection.

The government's action, inaugurating a policy of intensive search before issuance of clearance papers to ships of nations directly involved in the European crisis, surprised maritime circles.

Veteran shipping men said they could recall no instance where a ship of the size and importance of the Bremen had been delayed by an inspection which is normally regarded as routine. Clearing papers usually are granted after a perfunctory examination.

Asked what type of search now was contemplated, Gregory O'Keefe, assistant collector of the port, said "a special examination covered by the law" seeking "armament and spies" as well as contraband merchandise.

"You've heard of privateering, haven't you?" O'Keefe asked.

Among other foreign ships to be subjected to a similar federal scrutiny, O'Keefe said, are the French liners Normandie and De Grasse. He said similar precautions had been observed concerning the vessels of certain foreign nations during the Czech crisis last fall.

Officials declined to say how long the search would take, but it was certain to delay by many hours the departure of the Bremen, originally scheduled for 7 a. m. (E. D. T.) today.

Preparations to refuel the liner, ordered to race back home without passengers or cargo, still were being rushed when officials of the North German Lloyd Line learned no clearance papers were forthcoming.

"We were told that a new ruling had come from Washington which apparently affected only the ships of our company," said Captain William Drechsel, general marine superintendent for the line. "I cannot say now when the ship will get away, but we hope it will be during the morning."

The Bremen arrived at dusk last night with some 1600 passengers and had been expected to remain in port only a few hours.

Many Americans Stranded in Paris

PARIS, Aug. 29 (AP)—United States embassy officials estimated today they had received more than 2000 registrations of Americans unable to get passage home.

Americans jammed the embassy corridors. Volunteers helped the regular embassy staff in taking care of applicants for passage. Hundreds had steamship tickets for the near future, but cancellations of many westbound sailings voided them.

All sailings of the Hamburg-American Line, the Italian Line, the Britannic, Scythia and Auranta of the Cunard White Star Line and the Duchess of Bedford of the Canadian Pacific were cancelled.

Pan-American Airways said westbound flights of trans-Atlantic clippers were booked until mid-September. Long lines of people waited before shipping offices.

The liner Manhattan of the United States Lines cancelled her Hamburg call and sails at midnight tomorrow with extra beds aboard.

The Europa, which failed to call at Cherbourg and Southampton yesterday and proceeded direct to Bremen, carried approximately 40 Americans and British to Germany.

Many American college boys and girls swarmed Paris cafes, dined, danced and apparently enjoyed their enforced stay.

British Poking Fun at Crisis to Ease Tension

LONDON, Aug. 29 (AP)—The London Press, catching its breath during a lull in crisis developments, took a little time out today to poke fun at the situation.

The Daily Express printed a column of "The Cockney's Crisis Humor," incidents resulting from war preparations and discussions.

The Daily Mail published a cartoon showing a steel-helmeted civilian wooing his girl friend on a park bench under a moon masked like London's traffic lights.

The News Chronicle used a picture snapped of a holidaying motorist who had placarded his automobile, "Half a mo' Hitler—let's have our holidays first."

France Coolly Awaits Hitler Reply to British Ultimatum

PARIS, Aug. 29 (AP)—King Leopold III of the Belgians and and Queen Wilhelmina of the Netherlands were reported today in a quarter close to the French foreign office to have offered their "good offices" for an effort to mediate the German-Polish crisis.

The monarchs of the two powers, these sources said, have made their offers to France, Britain, Germany, Italy and Poland.

France was said to have received the Belgian and Netherlands communications this morning and to have replied with a prompt acceptance.

Final decisions by Britain and France whether to attempt to put the Belgian-Netherlands offer into execution were understood to depend on Adolf Hitler's reply to the British note which was delivered to him last night by Ambassador Sir Nevile Henderson.

BACK BRITAINS STAND

Chamberlain's statement today in Commons was welcomed in French quarters as showing a firm stand by Britain paralleling the position adopted by France.

French sources said France's general mobilization order was ready if needed. The nation already has called up eight reservist classes. Requisitioning of all forms of transportation proceeded smoothly.

Civilians pasted black paper over windows and put in blue light bulbs as they did a year ago in the Sudeten crisis that ended in the Munich peace conference.

Frenchmen of all walks of life said today there was no question of another Munich. Impartial observers could not detect the slightest crack in this French resolution.

Some French leaders continued to speculate on Italy's role. Some still suggested Premier Mussolini might offer himself as a mediator as he did a year ago. But none of them were banking very strongly on it, for the reason that they could not see how Hitler could change front following his jeer to Daladier.

Government censorship was in operation.

Russia Delays Final Pact O. K.

MOSCOW, Aug. 29 (AP)—Soviet Russia cautiously delayed formal ratification of her non-aggression act with Germany today and watched the grave movement of the European situation.

Most observers thought a speech by Vyacheslaff Molotoff, Soviet premier and foreign commissar, expected to precede ratification was being delayed because of the possible outbreak of a "capitalistic war."

Foreign observers did not doubt that Russia would ratify the treaty with Germany. But they expected Europe's coming events would decide the tone of Molotoff's speech.

If there is peace, the Soviet Union is expected to claim credit for it. If it's war, she expects to remain neutral.

Berlin Sees Way Out of War As Hitler Weighs British 'No'

By PIERRE J. HUSS
International News Service Staff Correspondent

BERLIN, Aug. 29—Prospects of immediate war in Europe faded today as Adolf Hitler carefully pondered Great Britain's answer to his settlement proposals with the aim of drafting his own rejoiner in such a manner that the road to peaceful solution remains wide open.

The above information was gathered by this correspondent from most reliable quarters.

It can be definitely stated at the present moment that a "way out" is now accepted as a possible alternative to war. But a means of settling the issue at stake has not yet been found, with Hitler insisting that Britain and France must discover a way of cutting the Gordian knot.

CALLS IN EXPERTS

With Field Marshal Hermann Wilhelm Goering and Foreign Minister Joachim von Ribbentrop, Hitler studied all implications of the note handed in at the chancellery late last night by British Ambassador Sir Neville Henderson.

In view of the exchange of letters and telephone consultations between Hitler and Mussolini in the last few days and again today, it can be taken for granted that the Fuehrer's reply to England will be sent with Il Duce's personal agreement in every word.

REPORT IS FLOWN BACK

Initial reports from Henderson on Hitler's preliminary verbal reply to some points in the British note were flown to London today.

David Boyd, "mystery man" of the British foreign office, who accompanied Henderson on his last trip from London, took off for London at noon carrying the reports.

Boyd also carried Henderson's report on the attitude shown by Hitler in the course of their long conversation last night. This will be more correctly reflected in a written note the Fuehrer is expected to transmit to London.

Meanwhile, the British government should now have a good advance idea of what to expect.

Indicative of the present trend was the fact that German newspapers and agencies and the radio considerably toned down the atrocity campaign against Poland, although they obviously were all set to resume it at a moment's notice if necessary.

TENSION SLACKENS

The first hint that a plebiscite may be suggested by Britain and that it might be acceptable to the Germans appeared in the newspaper Deutsche Allgemeine Zeitung.

Hold Captive in $1000 On Narcotics Charge

Visiting vets had an unexpected thrill during a tour of Chinatown, it was revealed today, with the arraignment before a U. S. Commissioner of Edward McCarron, 53, of W. Sixth st., South Boston, charged with possession of 36 grains of heroin.

McCarron was seized by Federal Narcotics Agent John A. Sheehan on Kneeland st., after he was seen "making a buy" from an unidentified Chinaman, police say. There was a tussel during which the Chinaman escaped. McCarron was held in $1000 bail for the Federal Grand jury, and, unable to supply it, was sent to the East Cambridge jail.

IL DUCE 'LAST HOPE FOR PEACE' IN CRISIS

ROME, Aug. 29 (AP)—Italy felt that today would be a decisive one in Europe's history, but retained the serenity she has shown throughout this crisis.

Watching Berlin for the answer to the great question—peace or war—Italians also looked to Premier Mussolini to step in at the last moment and save peace, in the event the negotiations between the British government and Adolf Hitler broke down.

As reports of pessimism and war preparations came in from other countries, life went on normally here in almost every respect. The people displayed optimism which astounded the few remaining foreigners.

It was not because they were uninformed, for the controlled press reported events with unusual objectivity and stressed the situation's seriousness.

Other countries closed frontiers and cut off communications, but Italy maintained open frontiers and normal telephone and telegraph service, except with those countries which cut them off.

Railways operated normally. Food shops had their normal supplies.

TARS BOARD STRANGE CRAFT—Men of Britain's royal reserve boards board a London bus commandeered by authorities to take the men to their wrs stations with the fleet. Scenes like this are the rule in London today as Britain builds up her fighting forces to full war strength.

NAZI FOOD LAWS PINCH WEALTHY AND POOR ALIKE

BERLIN, Aug. 29 (AP)—A hundred dollar bill, or 1000 marks, could not buy two sticks of shaving soap, a dozen handkerchiefs, or three dresses in Berlin today.

And without a letter, stamped and sealed by a Nazi authority, the richest man in Berlin couldn't buy a pair of shoes.

Many Germans, most of whom are fairly prosperous these days, learned with a jolt yesterday money is useless when a government as determined and efficient as the Reich, decides to clamp down a war-time rationing system.

A man could buy one, but not two cakes of shaving soap. But he got even that one he would have to give up a little ticket which would not be duplicated for five months.

Any woman with two dresses couldn't buy a third.

In a situation approximating wartime conditions Nazi authorities held two dresses are enough for a woman.

Many things went wrong yesterday as Berlin introduced the rationing system.

The rolls weren't delivered.

The milk didn't come until noon.

Worried merchants tried to figure out the regulations. They attempted to make deliveries despite the fact motorcycles had been requisitioned and thousands of drivers summoned for service. Then tried to pacify customers who thought they ought to have more tea.

The sudden application of the rationing system was an unexpected blow which drove home with a bang the realization war may be very near.

Previously, Germans by and large had believed with confidence another Hitler coup would save peace and yet give Germany just what it wanted.

But the pink marmalade, milk, butter and textile certificates which excited housewives waved about as they stormed the shops awakened in many the fear this crisis may be more serious than anything modern Germany yet has faced.

Old-timers remembered the World War when flour was black, when automobiles ran without tires, when an egg was just a pre-war memory and when even in the smartest apartment houses the hot water was turned on only Saturdays.

Watertown Ships Big Aircraft Gun

A new type, 14,000-pound anti-aircraft gun today was on a long journey by trailer truck to Aberdeen, Md., from Watertown today.

The gun, the largest ever to be moved over the road by motor, is of three-inch calibre and fires a time bomb several miles into the air.

Hitler Puts Self and Aides Under Nazi Food Laws

BERLIN, Aug. 29 (AP)—Adolf Hitler, in keeping with his government's emergency measures, has put himself and the staff of his Wilhelmstrasse chancellery on a strict one-course meal basis.

Men in close contact with the chancellery said Hitler instructed his cook to strike soup and dessert from bill of fare for the time being.

The chancellery staff—office workers, secretaries, typists, members of the SS bodyguard and chauffeurs of adjutants—regularly eat their midday meal in the casino of the chancellery.

Henceforth, anyone having meals at the casino must present his food ticket to the kitchen attendants for them to clip off the coupons for such things as coffee, milk, meat and fats.

Coffee, rare in every household, also is scarce at the chancellery, informants said.

German Martial Law in Slovakia

BRATISLAVA, Slovakia, Aug. 29 (AP)—German martial law was proclaimed in nominally independent Slovakia today by Premier Josef Tiso. Notices signed by the premier appeared on public streets, stating:

"All difficulties between Slovak citizens and German troops are to be tried in German military courts. Slovakia must furnish the food supply of the German army, here to protect our young state against the threatening Polish danger."

Fears Dachshund Will Suffer as German Symbol

LONDON, Aug. 29 (AP)—The Times published a letter from D. L. Murray of Brighton today, asking caricaturists and humorous writers to quit making the dachshund the symbol of the German nation.

"Absurd as it may seem," he said, "the prevalence of this idea in the popular imagination has produced real risk of thoughtless acts of cruelty being committed against harmless little animals which are English by birth and affection by generations of breeding."

Pastor Hired Killer Of Daughter, Charge

CAMDEN, N. J., Aug. 29 (AP)—The Rev. Walter Dworecki, whose preaching vigor earned him the nickname, "Iron Mike," was accused by County Prosecutor Samuel P. Orlando today of hiring his daughter's suitor to kill her for insurance.

The auburn-haired girl, Wanda, 18, was found dead August 6. She had been beaten and strangled to a grip so powerful it broke her breast bone.

At a police court hearing the 42-year-old clergyman and Peter Shewchuk, 21, a former boarder in the Dworecki home, pleaded guilty to murder charges, but their pleas were changed to innocent under a law that a plea of guilty to murder cannot be accepted at a preliminary hearing. Both were held without bail.

Orlando said both signed statements that "the murder was committed by Peter at the solicitation of the father."

Shewchuk, sought since Wanda's battered body was discovered in weeds near a South Camden "Lover's Lane," surrendered to police Saturday in Chester, Pa., his home town.

The clergyman, who founded his own church here 13 years ago, was taken into custody a few hours later.

"Shewchuk was to receive the sum of $100," Orland added, but the father never paid.

"The father hoped to obtain the insurance on the girl, which would amount to between $5000 and $6000 with double indemnity."

Orlando said that until confronted with Shewchuk's statement the clergyman declared repeatedly that he believed his daughter was slain by the two men who abducted her last April, beat and choked her and left her unconscious along a country road 25 miles from home.

She left home the night of Aug. 7, telling her family she was going to a nearby drug store. Orlando quoted Shewchuk as saying he met her as previously arranged, took her to the "lover's lane" and strangled her there.

Dworecki reported her missing next day.

DELANEY RESIGNS

John Lacey Delaney, the former liquidating agent of closed banks, but since early in the year an assistant in the division, today tendered his resignation to Governor Saltonstall.

In the letter of resignation—submitted only three days before Garrett S. Hoag of Wellesley takes over as director of the new division for liquidation of closed banks—Delaney said he was relinquishing his post in order to run for mayor of Cambridge.

Delaney was appointed liquidating agent by former Governor Charles F. Hurley.

Shortly after Governor Saltonstall took office, however, he appointed William T. Halliday of Newton as liquidating agent, Delaney remaining as assistant.

Then the Legislature created the new division, which Hoag will head.

Delay by Stalin Gives Hitler Worry

MUSSOLINI MAY ACT

The fourth reason for delay in outbreak of war is that talk still is continuing between Hitler and the allies, and no matter how harsh Hitler's reply to Daladier or the English, the fact remains that as long as talk goes on and guns don't go off there still is a chance of peace.

Fifth, every indication now points to belief that Mussolini is planning last-minute intervention in a move which might be his own, dictated by the obviously desperate position of Italy and the correspondingly desperate desire of Il Duce to stay out of war if possible.

Or such a move might be a carefully worked out plan of Hitler's to appear, at the very height of the crisis, suddenly persuaded to negotiate with Poland by an appeal from his axis partner.

It is thought that any such appeal of Mussolini's probably will be directed equally to Poland, suggesting that she take the first step and request that Hitler negotiate.

These reasons anticipate a few days' commutation of the death sentence which Hitler apparently has imposed upon the world, but will not affect in any sense the impressive, grim resolution of France and England to fight.

LUST FOR WAR GONE

Their spirit and that of all Europe is astonishingly different from that of 1914. Then the troops of each side plunged into war like fighting cocks. Each nation cheered. All wanted and welcomed war.

Today there is no cheering and no lust to get at the enemy's throat. Among Europe's 10,000,000 mobilized men there are probably not 10,000 who actually want war, and this includes the Germans.

They all await the word of one man, who, if he gives the command, will stand throughout history coldly, calculatedly and uniquely responsible for a war all mankind abhorred.

N. H. Border Liquor Store Worries Long

Concern over the possibility of a new liquor store opening in Salem, N. H., just a step over the Massachusetts line, was expressed today by State Tax Commissioner Henry F. Long as the date for higher liquor prices in Massachusetts approached.

Friday the new Massachusetts state taxes on liquors (except still wines, beers and ales)) and cigarettes go into effect, boosting the prices of these articles to the consumer.

With the tax date has grown official fear of bootlegging, with drastic action promised by officials if persons are caught buying liquors and cigarettes out of state for re-sale here.

The new tax on liquor is 95 cents a gallon and on cigarettes 2 cents per package. Liquor brands will cost the consumer an extra 15 to 20 cents for quarts, about 10 cents on pints and 5 cents on half pints.

THRIFTY STOCK UP

Retail stores report an increasingly heavy demand from the thrifty who are apparently stocking up on the commodities before the taxes become effective.

Today a rport was received at the office of Commissioner Long that a petition has been filed with the New Hampshire Alcoholic Beverages Control Commission for opening of a new state liquor store at Salem.

Already in New Hampshire, under state control, liquor stores sell liquors at a much lower price than those in Massachusetts. With the Bay State tax added, the differential will be that much greater.

In inquiring regarding the proposed new liquor store, Commissioner Long wrote to the New Hampshire authorities:

"I am anxious to learn that nothing like this is to occur with the differentiation in the price of liquor as applied under the Massachusetts law and what might be applied under the New Hampshire law.

"Undoubtedly the temptation would be strong to go across the border and purchase at a lower rate."

It was said that if the store is opened in Salem, steps will be taken in Massachusetts to apprehend and prosecute persons seeking to evade the tax law by purchasing liquor in New Hampshire for re-sale here.

CONNECTICUT HAS STAMP

Commissioner Long said he does not feel concern about other states bordering on Massachusetts, because the tax in these other states is sufficiently high so that there is no incentive for rum running.

Meanwhile, from Conecticut it was reported that there is no serious bootlegging of cigarettes in that state because of the 2-cent Connecticut tax.

Unlike what is provided for here, Connecticut law requires that a tax stamp be affixed to each package of cigarettes.

The total revenue to the state since the Conencticut tax was introduced four years ago is $9,376,577.78 up to June 30 for four fiscal years.

By years, the tax returns have been $2,074,495.45 for 1936, $3,041,922.07 for 1937, $1,688,706.13 for 1938, and $2,571,854.13 for 1939.

The variation for 1938 resulted from a change in the discount rate from 10 per cent to 5 per cent to wholesalers, who put on stamps, resulting in wholesalers loading themselves up with stamps in 1937 which they used in 1939.

Gov. Murphy's Sons Fight Death

MANCHESTER, N. H., Aug. 29—The two sons of Governor Francis P. Murphy fought for life at Sacred Heart Hospital today, their names on the danger list following an automobile accident in nearby Bedford.

They are Walter, 31, who was given the last rites of the Catholic Church, and Francis P. Murphy, Jr., 20. The former suffered a skull fracture, a broken right leg and internal injuries, while his younger brother was treated for internal injuries and possible fracture of the skull.

Gov. Murphy was in Boston attending a dinner of the National Veterans of Foreign Wars. He was notified of the accident by Police Commissioner Timilty.

Squalus Lift Due Tomorrow

PORTSMOUTH, N. H., Aug. 29—With one more failure behind them, navy salvagers doggedly attacked their task of lifting the submarine Squalus today, confident that a new try tomorrow will bring success.

Two more pontoons, now declared necessary to surface the sunken 1,000,000 craft, were towed from the navy yard to the scene at dawn and divers went below to attach them.

Old Colony Riders Hail Order to Extend Service

More than 10,000 train commuters of the South Shore were jubilant today over the decision of trustees of the Old Colony Railroad to postpone an announced abandonment of service until at least January 1.

The decision was made in Federal Court at New Haven during a conference of trustees of the New Haven Railroad, its bondholders and representatives of the State of Massachusetts.

The service at some 47 stations had been scheduled to close down September 24.

The agreement was reached by the trustees, Judge Carroll C. Hincks in charge of reorganization proceedings, Atty. Gen. Paul A. Dever and Sen. Jarvis Hunt of North Attleboro, chairman of the special commission created to study the situation.

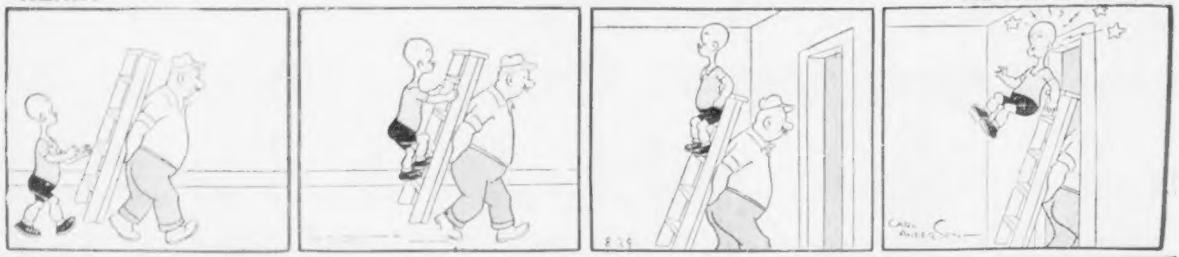
HENRY

He Asked for It!



A FLASH AND CASH FOR A TIP

When a neighbor was overcome by gas, it seemed news to a Chelsea man and he promptly telephoned the City Editor of Liberty 4000. But neither he nor the editor knew then what big news it would turn out to be. For that incident led to a search for the man's wife, and the following day a Revere woman phoned a tip of the finding of a woman's body at Oak Island.

Through these two telephone tips to Liberty 4000 came the arrest of the husband, on a charge of murder. News indeed! And the Boston Record-Boston Evening American-Boston Sunday Advertiser, instead of awarding one top prize for a news tip this week, split the prize and awards $5 each to these two quick-acting persons in the Weekly News Tip Contest.

$2 TO BRIGHTON MAN

To a Brighton man goes $2 for his tip on two boys fatally burned while playing with a paint can.

Other $5 prize winners include a South Boston man, who was first with news Anthony Fokker, famous airplane designer, was in Boston with his yacht; a Boston woman who phoned a tip on a novel-and-drama hospital romance; and a Back Bay man who furnished information leading to an exclusive figures arrest story.

OTHER AWARDS

Winners of $1 awards include:

A Newton Highlands man, for his tip on a police auto chase with capture of a bystander, for his tip on arrest of a bag snatcher at gunpoint.

A Dorchester girl, first with news of a shocking accident on Chatham, a Hyannis man, who furnished a spot-news picture of a fireman being carried unconscious from a North Pembroke blaze.

A South Boston man, for a tip on a police pursuit of two youthful auto thieves, an Everett woman, for her tip on a hit-run explosion with two persons injured.

A Roxbury man, for a Dover and Elm car crash; a Brockton man, for news of a Labor Day accident, a Malden woman, who "lived" with news of a child "dead" on Malden high school road.

A Melrose cop, for his tip on a Hollis, N. H., drowning, and a Quincy man, for a lumber mill fire tip.

50,000 VETERANS IN RECORD HUB PARADE

ing civilization into the deep and unfathomable chasm of war."

FOR STRONG NAVY

The admiral's stand for a strong fleet was backed by Rep. John W. McCormack of South Boston, who declared:

"It is our duty to have a navy and an air force that is not only capable of providing an adequate defense, but which will be powerful enough to command respect and even fear, if necessary."

Gov. Lewis O. Barrows of Maine told the delegates that all Americans must stand together as a unit "if American ideals are to be preserved."

Commander Van Antwerp made an incisive promise that the V. F. W. will continue its fight to keep America out of any alliances of any sort with Europe or the Orient.

It is not enough, he said in his annual report, to keep out of offensive agreements—the United States must avoid committing herself in any international quarrel on any basis.

"The veteran is convinced we have no business in the international affairs of other nations or in foreign quarrels," he said.

"We must avoid all foreign defensive and offensive alliances, and if any such treaties secretly exist, they should be made public in order that the people of the United States may voice their disapproval."

As the convention accepted his report unanimously, the national commander-in-chief again made clear his stand on the much-discussed pension question, scheduled for serious consideration by the convention—and held possible cause of a policy split in the ranks of the delegates.

PENSION VIEW

So far as the National administration of the organization is concerned, its recommendations will be for a "jobs or pension" platform insuring a livelihood for all veterans.

The program he will recommend, he added, will call for a uniform, but graduated system of pensions for disabled veterans or those unable to secure employment, taking into consideration length and type of service.

But is will definitely not, Van Antwerp emphasized, call for a general pension system for all veterans, although one faction in the V. F. W. has given voice to such a demand.

On this point, a clash looms on the convention floor, since several state department commanders have already indicated sentiment in their departments for a general pension plan.

One form of pension expected to receive general endorsement, according to Van Antwerp, was the development of a pension for every service widow and service orphan not otherwise provided for.

"Our organization recognizes one principle in regard to the widows an dorphans of all war veterans," he stated.

"We believe that these widows and orphans, in their time of need are entitled to the helpful and sympathetic assistance of a grateful government.

"When a man goes to war, he is torn between two duties, his duty to his family and his duty to his country. If he dies or is disabled on the battlefield, who will provide for his loved one?"

The commander also recommended expansion of veterans hospital facilities to allow for the future, continuation of the organization's support of a strong national defense program, continuation of the V. F. W. youth and Americanism activities, and prosecution, punishment and deportation of aliens preaching subversive doctrines.

THOUSANDS LINE STREETS

As he spoke, the streets of Boston were filling with the thousands who sought vantage points along the roped off sidewalks from which to watch the colorful line of march pass by, a procedure which was expected to take at least six hours. More than 250,000 were expected to view the parade.

It was to be the greatest parade the V. F. W. has ever organized, and the hugest seen in Boston since the American Legion held its convention here almost a decade ago.

In miniature, the marching cohorts represented a pageant of the military glories of the United States from the victorious though pestilential campaigns in Cuba and Puerto Rico to the muddy glory of the trenches on the Western front.

There were men in the line of march who had followed Old Glory across the sugar fields of Cuba, who had rallied to Theodore Roosevelt's cries on the sun-baked slope of San Juan Hill.

Others marched who had marched with Gen. Funston in the Philippines. Still others had been among the gallant band which fought its way across the plains of China to the relief of the beleaguered whites in Tientsin and Peking during the Boxer rebellion.

And there were those who followed "Black Jack" Pershing half across Mexico in his chase after the bandit Villa, later to follow that same leader to France with the A. E. F.

GOVERNOR IN LINE

Behind a detachment of motorcycle police Gov. Saltonstall took his place in the long line, as the parade's honorary grand marshal.

And hossing the entire colorful assembly, as officers wrought orders out of the chaos of marching men assembled in the area between Arlington st. and Massachusetts ave., was Col. Thomas A. Sullivan, chief marshal in civil life, the chairman of the Boston Transit Commission.

As the parade wound from Beacon and School sts., over on Washington to Winter, thence to Tremont, and finally to the junction of Columbus ave. and Clarendon st. by way of Park sq., it was reviewed on Tremont st. by the governors of the New England states, and at Berkeley st. west of Columbus ave. by the chief marshal.

At Clarendon st. after the hours of marching the line dissolved in the dusk of the evening and the greatest V. F. W. parade in history had passed into memory.

Beverly Girl Hurt In Lynn Crash

A 22-year-old Beverly girl suffered face injuries today when the car in which she was riding swerved headlong into a telephone post on the Lynnway boulevard, near the General Edwards bridge.

The girl, Shirley E. Ryan, of Bantoni st., was riding toward Beverly with George A. Sance, of Elliott st., also of Beverly, who was driving the car, according to police, and escaped injury.

W. R. Hearst Called Veterans' Champion

William Randolph Hearst has been the "No. 1 champion" of veterans and a "living symbol" of Americanism, Paul C. Wolman, chairman of the Veterans of Foreign Wars National Legislative Committee, announced today.

In a special statement to the Boston Evening American, Wolman, past national commander-in-chief of the Veterans of Foreign Wars, referred to Hearst newspapers as "friends of the war veteran as far back as I can remember" and suggested that other newspapers follow the Americanism policy of Hearst newspapers.

Wolman said:

"As far back as I can remember William Randolph Hearst has always stuck by the veterans.

"In 1929 he defended the bonus and since then he has always fought to give the American soldier a break.

"I think I can safely say that the Veterans of Foreign Wars are grateful to Mr. Hearst for his warm support and endorsement of our policies."

On the question of neutrality Wolman criticized Congress for adjourning without passing any constructive neutrality laws. He deplored the "Congressional atmosphere" in the present European crisis.

"As the matter now stands," he said, "There is no specific course for us to follow should the heightening tension overseas finally culminate in open hostilities. Therefore, we can only hope that Congress will seriously consider this important question the next time.

"I think it is needless for me to say how important it is.

"In times like these, we need a sound, stable and dignified neutrality policy, one that is both workable and capable of commanding the respect of all nations."

Myrna Loy Double Due For Fair Trip

Have your friends ever remarked on your resemblance to Myrna Loy?

If they have, then you're in line to win a trip to the World's Fair, a glamorous I. T. Fox ensemble and a Rustic bob-do by one of Boston's expert beauticians.

Because The Boston Evening American is conducting a Myrna Loy Double Contest and YOU may be the victor.

One of the season's newest hits soon to be shown at Loew's State and Orpheum theaters is M-G-M's "Another Thin Man," co-starring Myrna Loy and the inimitable William Powell.

The contest is in connection with that picture so if you've seen fold, or if you think you are Myrna's double, send your photo to The Myrna Loy Doubles Editor, Boston Evening American, 5 Winthrop sq., Boston, Mass.

There is no other requirement.

And if you are selected as the winner, you will join the Loew's Theaters Hit Parade which starts in Boston on Sept. 7 and winds up at the World's Fair in New York nine days later . . .

The trip through a dozen New England cities will be fun for the Myrna double, for in Worcester she will meet a Rita Johnson double, in Providence a Judy Garland double, a Hartford one for Norma Shearer, in Waterbury one for Rosalind Russell.

'Mystery Blonde' Still Hides History

Blond and attractive Anna Walsh, rescued yesterday after she had plunged into the harbor from Union wharf, was still a mystery woman today in spite of the name and address she finally gave at City Hospital.

"Anna Walsh, 33, white, unmarried, of Shawmut ave., South End."

That was now it went into police and hospital records today.

But Anna Walsh's personal background, her past joys and sorrows, her future hopes and worries and fears, remained a secret locked within herself.

Police and city welfare investigators were able to learn only that she came to Boston from Worcester several months ago, that she was an "occasional" tenant in the Shawmut ave. rooming house she listed as her home.

It appeared she had no job, no money and no friends. A charitable organization had been providing shelter and food.

Human Side of News -:-

By EDWIN C. HILL

SCIENTISTS among civilized human beings has been pretty well established in the past few centuries. But not so among savage races and queer things do happen.

My friend Captain Achmet Abdullah of noble Afghan birth and an author of distinction, once told me this creepy yarn.

The captain was serving in the British Intelligence in Africa. Among information of any abnormal activities among the natives, he heard of one named Mendam who was believed to be a werewolf, and who was suspected of killing children when at night into a wolf or a leopard.

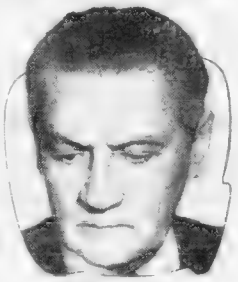
took the native gossip as merely another example of native superstition but sometime later, in a deep jungle at dusk he came suddenly upon a prowling leopard. He fired, but the light was poor and his bullet only wounded the brute in the left hindleg.

A few days later the news came to Captain Abdullah that the native, Mendam, generally suspected of being a werewolf, had been found in his hut with a bullet wound in the left hindleg.

Though a native citizen, might make a good man for the native force the British were recruiting. So the captain went for Mendam. hatchet hair, he knew what he would find within. Mendam was dead had been for days.

A curious thought came to the captain as he remembered the leopard at which he had fired. He examined the body. There was a bullet wound in the left hindleg. An army bullet was deeply imbedded.

Captain Abdullah was the only white man in the whole district with a rifle which fired an army bullet.



EDWIN C. HILL
Captain Told Creepy Yarn

G. WARD PRICE, distinguished London journalist of unquestioned accuracy, a tall handsome, mannered Oxonian who has frequently visited in America, became a warm personal friend of and Hitler told Mr. Price that he was guided by voices which he alone could hear – voices inaudible to any other persons who might be standing by.

Herr Hitler told Mr. Price that one of these voices had preserved his life for a great mission to serve Germany. He said that when he was a corporal in the Great War, he was lying one day in a shell hole with 15 other soldiers.

A CALM, clear voice spoke to Corporal Hitler's ear commanding him instantly to get out of the shell hole. He arose to his feet, scrambled out and had run only a few yards when a shell burst squarely in the hole and killed every man of his 15 comrades.

There is a curious mediaeval flavor to all this. Major and minor leaders in Fuehrers of Europe went pomo crazy over astrology during the sixteenth century. The continent was torn to pieces by dynastic, religious and economic wars. Even in Holland and Italy, court astrologers called their shots like a pool shark and projected ships and armies into decades of war and pillage.

Herr Hitler has declared that conveyance will be with Lindbergh's shuttle, and that the remaining years of his life are few. I wonder if his staff of astrologers can tell him the hour when the King of Terrors shall arrive or dare he ask?

SOUTH BOSTON STAR PENS COLUMN

By Jack Haley

Jack Haley, screen and radio comedian, is today's Guest Columnist for Leonard Lyons, who is on vacation.

NEW YORK, Aug. 29. I don't know whether this is flattering or not, but out in California I used to get up at seven every morning and mutter Celtic to myself in a falsetto voice waking up the house. This was odd because I had never learned Celtic, or anything else back home in South Boston.

My mutterings annoyed my wife and our guests so much that I was sent to a school and learned to be a little man with a beard who has been to Yale and was of course a psychoanalyst. He told me to write Lyons column so here I is.

I was Handsome Jack, the Pride of South Boston facing the ladies at the Lenox Club, social light brackers. I gave 'em all I had a [illegible] recreation of that old classic which I spent the rest of my life forgetting, "Leapfrog, Jump."

MISS STANWYCK

After that, the teachers of the Dwight Grammar School couldn't stop me from making the class address. But somehow my family was worried about my Thespian antics, and after a brief fussie with the punks of Boston English High School I got a job as office boy at $5.50 per week. The monotony and the [illegible] but made more noise. I began to use it to impress A Girl. She was out. I apparently impressed her sister for we got married.

ALMOST at the same time I got into Atop and Wed, the cryptic title of the Lights Out and Amateur Hour gave Haley the boost Daley needed. For after that I went into "Around the Town." Then the Century Follies and "Gay Paree," with Barbara Stanwyck in the chorus. Then on to Hollywood, and pictures, [illegible] pictures! (Also radio, radio, radio!) In my newest picture, "The Wizard of Oz," I guess I'm getting back to the six-year-old stage in my costume of "The Tin Woodman." I got a kick out of doing it, but how I would have loved to [illegible]

Hopeful View Encourages Stock Rally

NEW YORK, Aug. 29 (INS) The stock market rallied 1 to more than 2 points today, taking a more hopeful view on the European crisis while awaiting Hitler's reply to England's note. A few of the high-priced stocks did better than the average with duPont up almost 4 points at best.

War Clouds Become Steel's Bright Skies

PITTSBURGH, Aug. 29 (AP)—While grim war clouds hover over Europe today, the glare from the vast steel mills and coke ovens of America's "workshop of the world" once again are brightening skies here.

It was not the orders from the disciples of Mars which lighted the bright fires of the blast, open hearth and Bessemer furnaces, although certainly in the background

AUSTEN LAKE

Simmering Stew From Sport Kettle

NOT TO BE ROUGH ON THE RED SOX but why not let the Olympets soft ball ladies finish out the Fenway season? Here come our adult Freddy Bartholomews limping on their last homeward leg with a13-game deficit instead of the six they left Boston with on Aug. 14. What price the remaining 10-game series with the Yankees now? All the Yanks have to do is win 24 of their remaining 34 games while the Sox are winning all 36 of theirs. It looks as though the club is building character for next year . . .

AUSTEN LAKE

If war comes, hardest hit sport will be hockey. The ice rodeo is composed 99 per cent of Canadian players of draft age and it is certain that before snow flies nearly all of the National League players would be in khaki. Such is the full-blooded, eager enthusiasm of the husky kids that, my guess is, they would not wait to be drawn but would hustle to the nearest recruiting station. Melancholy thought! . . .

Walter Brown's pilgrimage to sign Mike-the-bit Jacobs to a promotional fight agreement in the Boston Garden was successful. Mike proposes a Billy Conn-Al McCoy bout in late September. But Billy fights another party next month and his manager doesn't want to tire him out. Where is the hardy breed of old time pugs who would fight 15 rounds, grab a depot lunch and take train to fight an other 15 rounds the next night . . .

Olympics and Generals

BEST BET OF THE WEEK IS THAT little world [illegible] Olympiad [illegible] Touted [illegible] music [illegible] When [illegible] steaming [illegible] to win a [illegible] Hoodlum [illegible] for [illegible]

[illegible] ing the World War and you are apt to hear a string of firecracker expletives. There seemed to be such a cuckoo strain about our generals We used to see through the eyes of envy of course these two-star peacocks in some G H Q town far behind the lines, their sleek hides glutted with the pick of the local commissary, their chests weighted with political medals and attended by detail ducking flunkies who shined their leather and valeted their wardrobes. The only powder they sniffed was the [illegible] that [illegible] peace [illegible] John Phelps N Y Yes [illegible] ing promotion [illegible]

WHEN THE CROSSCUP-PISHON POST invited BrudHolland, ex-Cornell Negro end, to join the All-Star football team for the September 11 game with George "Orchidacious" Marshall's Redskins, he wrote, prompt acceptance. As an added postscript he inquired, "Who will pay my medical expenses if I get hurt?' The question may have been mere business, yet the facts that Brud will be the only Negro no the field and the occasional tendency among white, Southern born opponents to "lay it on" may have caused Brud to anticipate rough going. If so he didn't flinch! Negro college players, like Oze Simmons (Iowa), Paul Robson (Rutgers), Frifz Pollard (Brown), Johnny Shelburne (Dartmouth) and a host of others have taken more than their share of brutalizing and still achieved stardom. Make no mistake the Negro is not lacking in "heart" deapite Nazi claims of Nordic superiority . . .

Distinct stride forward in football officiating is the publication of a "Manual on the technique" for the men who run around in linen knickers and breath blasts into their nickel burbers. The book will tend to unify actions of the field lawyers, but when it comes to judgment, instant decision and the electric reflexes which make a good official, no printed instruction can help. That is, or is it not, born in the man . . .

Grid Loss, Miff, Dog-Days

RECENTLY [illegible] Sheldon Fairbanks former Boston [illegible] other pro football team Sheldon was enthused and collected a small syndicate of Boston backers to talk it over with Mack's advance man The A M arrived wined and dined the syndicate and . . . hah' heh' left behind a series of as yet unpaid bills Results A sudden chill on Fairbanks' interest and no pro football team for Boston . . .

Soon [illegible] the original 20th Century Sporting Club of New York and made a fortune in fisties, have a three way non speaking tiff Bill doesn't speak to Ed and Mike doesn't speak to Bill a though each still has a finger in the big chump trap All communications are carried on through third parties . . .

Having 40 more racing dates to give away at its own discretion, the State race commission is weighing Wonderland's request for 12 more dog days. Originally Wonderland grabbed ninety, and more recently was awarded five more. Now they want to start the mad whirl [illegible] on Sept 18 instead of Oct 1 thereby getting 107 days all told . . .

EAGLES LIFT CURTAIN ON N.E. FOOTBALL STAGE

The cap comes off the bottle marked "Football Activity" at Boston College tomorrow at 10 a. m., for at that time a squad of 40 candidates will be issued their first equipment of the year, and a short time later will hear the welcoming address from Coach Frank Leahy, the new mentor.

VICTORY'S HIGH SIGN—Connie Mack gives the cameraman the sign he's well again after laughing at death's threat since June. Then he was taken sick in Boston, and life hung by a thread. Now he says he'll be back on the A's bench in a few days. He proves the race of Iron Men still lives.

Mack Better, Hopes To Build New Winner

PHILADELPHIA, Aug. 29 (AP) The [illegible] two almost fatal illnesses and a series of disappointments [illegible] haven t squelched Connie Mack's hopes for "another winner [illegible]

He received reporters [illegible] upraghers at his home yesterday for the first time since a recurring gall bladder ailment smote him two months ago and announced

"The doc says I'm good for many more years. I've got plenty of time to produce another winner or two."

PLANS TO BRACE TEAM

Then he went into a discussion of how he intends to bolster the Athletics as soon as he gets back with "my boys."

"We're looking chiefly for pitchers and infielders," the veteran president manager of the A's said "We've got some good material to trade, and I think we can get the proper men."

Mack felt "fine," but admitted [illegible] on a stretcher in June. The doctor shook his head and I gured it was the end."

ONLY BASEBALL NOW

"I've had to put up too many fights in my life to let this one get me down," he declared.

Expecting to return to Shibe Park in a week or two, Connie says he'll stick to baseball henceforth and at [illegible] to [illegible]

St. Augustine's, Casey Club in Title Joust

Bill Benson's St. Augustine Club with Jack Thompson on the rubber, upset the favored Roslindale Town Club, 5 to 2, last night at Healey field to win the East divisional title in the Boston Park League and knock the Town Club out of the flag race.

Dick Casey Club took the West divisional honors at Dorchester Town field where they shellacked Holy Name pitchers Volk, Grimley and Cunnigham to win 10-0. The Caseys threw back a 14-hit barrage against the three Holy Name tossers.

The little world's series for the twi flag will begin on Wednesday night at Dorchester Town field at 6 p. m. when Casey Club and St. Augustines come together in the first clash out of a four out of seven series.

St. Augustines, trailing the Roslindale Town Club all year in second place in the West, put on the pressure during the last three weeks which carried them to the hunting in 1938 when they swept the playoffs.

Benson's club was riddled by nonjoc league clubs taking the majority of his players last spring.

Joe Walsh will toss for St. Augustines on Wednesday night at the Town field with Casey's choice probably being Pete Cerrone. The second game will be played the following night at South Boston Stadium.

Mary Wilson Girl Medalist

WELLESLEY COUNTRY CLUB, Aug. 29—A 17-year-old Attleboro lass, Mary Jane Wilson was the medalist in the State junior girls golf championship when she carded a 46-48 for a 94 which was two strokes better than her nearest competitor.

Except for a weakness with her putter, Miss Wilson would have hung up a better score. This was the only department in which she showed any weakness.

Her closest rivals were Nancy Bailey of Marshfield and Anne Fitzgibbone of Duxbury, who finished with totals of 96 and 97 respectively.

In the junior-junior division for girls under 15 years of age, Ann Gerrish of the home club won the medal with 84 strokes for 12 holes, two lower than Barbara Feeley of Oakley, the sister of the State boys' junior-junior champion.

Match play in both sections will start today with Miss Wilson meeting Emma Hooton of Oakley, winner of the junior-junior crown last year.

Indians Order 4 Rookies to Report

CLEVELAND, Aug. 29 (AP)—The Cleveland Indian management announced the recall of four rookie players for delivery next spring.

They are Mike Naymick, six-foot, eight-inch right-handed pitcher, now at Cedar Rapids, Ia., where he was sent on option by Wilkes-Barre of the Eastern League, an Indian affiliate; Delbert Jones, outfielder, and Louis Roggion, infielder, also with Cedar Rapids; and Millard Howell, 19-year-old right-handed pitcher at Wilkes-Barre.

Lacey Skillful With Onondaga

SYRACUSE, N. Y., Aug. 29 (AP)—Handled skillfully by the veteran Charlie Lacey, Onondaga, a bay gelding owned by the Biery Farm, Butler, Pa., scored a straight-heat victory in the Yates Hotel Stake, feature event of the opening day of the Grand Circuit meeting at the New York State Fair track today.

Onondaga's chief contention came from More Expense, owned by H. C. Roulston of New York City, but the Biery gelding won twice by a nose, then scored by six lengths in the third heat.

MATCH PLAY-HO—Pretty Mary Ann Reed of Thorny Lea shows fine follow through as she swings her way into the first match play round of the State Junior Girls' Championship at Wellesley.

SMILING IN SWINGTIME—Ann Gerrish of Wellesley, left and Barbara Feeley of Oakley were ready for whatever match play might bring this morning at Wellesley, in the State Junior-Junior Championship. Ann was medalist in the division with 84 for the 12 holes played, and Barbara tied for runnerup at 86.

NICE TRY, BUT—Emma Hooton of Oakley made a nice recovery dead to the pin on this shot in the Junior qualifying round, but couldn't quite qualify for match play.

Pets, Bradys At Garden Friday

The champion of New England may well be on the line next Friday evening when the Boston Olympets tangle with the Burnham Brady Girls of Hartford at the Boston Garden in the feature game of a double bill.

Certainly there is no club in New England that has been able to do anything against the Hartford team, with the exception of the local array. The Brady team has swept every team in their state.

Among this season's victims is the Fisk Rubber Girls of Springfield which they defeated twice by the scores of 9-2 and 5-2.

To date the Boston girls have turned back the Rhode Island champions, the Maine champions, and the Connecticut title holders. No challenge has as yet been received from the New Hampshire or the Vermont leaders.

In defeating the Brady team two weeks ago at the Arena, the Olympets accomplished something no other team has been able to do this season. The game turned into the most thrilling contest of the year and it took the local lassies eight innings to overcome the Nutmeg Staters.

Yesterday's Stars

By the Associated Press

JOE DiMAGGIO and MARIUS RUSSO, Yankees—Former hit two homers and single, driving in eight runs. Russo pitched four-hitter for 18-2 win over Tigers.

MEL OTT, Giants—His single and homer produced all the runs in 3-1 decision over Reds.

BILL TROTTER, Browns—Handcuffed Senators with four hits for 12-2 win.

ARNIE GALL, Cubs—Hit double and single, driving in two runs, to top Phillies, 9-5.

TED WILLIAMS, Red Sox—His homer with two on in eighth inning topped Indians, 6-5.

FUDDY HASSETT, Bees—Hit triple and three singles, drove in one run and scored two in 10-5 victory over Cardinals.

GERRY WALKER, White Sox—His ninth inning single sent winning run across to down Athletics, 5-4.

BRICKLEY JUNIOR, INSISTS ON YALE

NEW YORK, Aug. 29 (AP)—The Casper, Wyo., white hope heavyweight tournament was won by Jesse Owens—a Negro . . . Charles Brickley, the old Harvard drop kicking star, says he talked himself hoarse, but it doesn't look as if he can keep Charles, Jr., from going to Yale.

Fans Boo Lee-Apostoli Bout

PITTSBURGH, Aug. 29 (INS)—Fred Apostoli, world's middleweight champion won a 10-round decision over Glenn Lee, billed as the Nebraska Wild Cat, in a lackadaisical shooting that brought loud boos from the crowd of 20,000 and warnings from the referee that he would stop the so-called fight.

Apostoli, to ringsiders, did not even seem to be trying. The first rounds were so poor that Referee Fred Mastrean warned both fighters in the third round, and then before the seventh threatened to stop the fight unless the boys speeded things up.

Numerous ringsiders walked out during the Apostoli-Lee show, while two or three threw straw hats into the ring to show their disgust.

Dupre Knocks Out Frankie Flynn

HOLYOKE, Aug. 29 (AP)—Tony Dupre, 125, Manchester, N. H., registered a two-round technical knockout over Frankie Flynn, 126, Batavia, N. Y., in the Valley Arena's scheduled 10-round feature bout. Dupre floored Flynn once in the first and twice in the second round before referee Jack Dobbers halted the one-sided affair.

Johnny Cousins, 142, Worcester, won a divided decision from Doug Murphy, 143, North Adams, in six; while Johnny Bradley, 154, Roxbury, knocked out Tony Verdo, 156, Boston, in the fourth.

Durable Gabby Sets New Endurance Mark

This is a piece about an old guy and a bunch of young guys—or age before beauty, in one act.

The youngsters are on the prowl in the big leagues these days—the rookies who have produced and are a cinch to stick, fellows like Charlie Keller and Ted Williams, Rip Russell and Merrill May. Sometimes the youngsters look down condescendingly on the old guys, but there's one they have a long way to go to catch.

He's the perennial laughing boy of baseball, garrulous Gabby Hartnett. Gabby hasn't much longer to go in harness. He's staring 40 in the eye and has been doing his chore behind the plate for the Chicago Cubs these last 17 years. But yesterday he passed another milestone that put his name in the record books again.

WILL SET RECORD

The game itself didn't amount to much. It was just a Monday outing against the Phillies, which the Cubs figured to win. They did, 5-3. But Gabby had on the mask and the pads and the big mitt and was shaking his hamlike fist for his boys to show fight. That was the 1721st or 1722d game Gabby has been out there with harness draped around his portly frame.

Ray Schalk, the old White Sox workhorse, always was regarded as being "untouchable" in that respect. He was back there in the tough spot with an all-time record of 1721 games, from 1912 through 1928. Until official figures are checked, it won't be decided whether Gabby equaled Ray's record or broke it yesterday, but since the Cubs have 31 or more games to play this season, the Gabby guy is a cinch to be out in front all by himself before long.

KELLER RIVALS WILLIAMS

To the rookies, and there are a goodly number of grade A performers among them, can tip the hat to the laughing boy this morning.

At the moment their big argument seems to be fighting it out for the crown of the year's freshman. A month or so ago it looked like Williams, the Boston Red Sox socker, who leads both leagues in driving in runs and who won another ball game yesterday with an eighth-inning homer that beat the Cleveland Indians, 6-5.

But now Charley Keller is putting in his bid. Charley got a late start with the Yankees, but is batting .356. Yesterday he collected himself a homer and a brace of singles as the Yankees slaughtered the Detroit Tigers, 18-2. Charley wasn't the biggest noise, however, since Joe DiMaggio whacked a homer with the bases loaded and another with two aboard.

BEES HAVE ANOTHER

Rip Russell is another standout freshman. He banged out his seventh four-bagger for the Cubs in yesterday's shindig. Then there's Gene Thompson, a valuable help to the Cincinnati Reds' hurling department, despite the tough one he lost yesterday when the Giants clicked, 2-1, with Mel Ott driving in all the New York runs.

This setback didn't take anything away from the Reds' five-game National League lead, however, for the second-place Cardinals were stymied by the rawest of the rookies, Al Moran, who made his debut with the Boston Bees a 10-5 pitching triumph.

Bill Trotter, still a youngster, although not exactly a newcomer, tossed a four-hitter, believe it or not, which paced the St. Louis Browns to a 12-2 decision over the Washington Senators. The Chicago White Sox shoved over a ninth-inning run to nip the Athletics, 5-4, under the arc lights.

The Dodgers and Pirates took the day off.

Dodgers Recall 14 Minor Leaguers

BROOKLYN, Aug. 29 (AP)—The Dodgers recalled 14 optioned players from Montreal of the International League, Nashville and Memphis of the Southern Association, Milwaukee of the American Association and Elmira of the Eastern League.

The list included seven pitchers, topped by Lefty Wayne Lamaster, one-time Phillies' hurler, and Gene Schott, former Cincinnati Reds' twirler, three infielders, two outfielders and a pair of catchers.

Cashman Praises Rabbit for Faith In Hiker Moran

Walter J. Maranville,
Manager, Albany B. B. C.
Albany, N. Y.

Dear "Rab":

Just in case you didn't read in the papers about Al "Hiker" Moran steering the Bees to a 10-5 victory over the Cardinals in his first big league start yesterday, I want you to know your "boy" was no end impressive.

It's taken him a few years, but it seems that "Hiker" finally is ready to blossom into the big-time here you predicted he'd become on the day you brought him to the Braves training camp at St. Pete.

I don't recall the exact spring, but it was when you were still the game's most colorful figure and I had a few grey hairs where I now have hundreds.

"He can't miss," you told Bill McKechnie, introducing him to Moran.

So it was with keen interest that we all awaited the kid's first appearance on the mound at Waterfront Park.

And after getting a peek at him, we all agreed he couldn't miss—a rapid return to the Rochester sandlots whence he came.

BRILLIANT WITH KNIFE

As a pitcher he was a world's champion eater. And the more he ate, the thinner and taller he became until McKechnie shipped him off to prevent his food bill drowning a franchise already up to its neck in red ink. Remember?

Anyway, you alone retained faith in your "find" and persuaded him to keep his chin up with the result that he was Hartford property when the Bees took over that club for a farm.

He did well enough last year, as you know, to get another Florida trial this past Spring. When he failed to stick this time, I, for one believed the majors had seen and heard the last of Al 'Hiker' Moran.

Yet here he is today boasting a decisive win over a National League pennant contender; a win he hung up by holding the hardest hitting team in the loop to nine hits, four of which were made by one man.

Opposing him was one Nate Andrews, a Cardinal right-hander who also was making his first big league start after winning 17 games for Columbus in the American Association. 'Hiker' knocked in one of six runs the Bees scored in the first inning to encourage the latest addition to their pitching staff.

ANDREWS PRIZE FIND

Andrews is rated a prize 'find'. If he's that good it would certainly seem you knew what you were talking about when you said Moran "couldn't miss."

But we don't have to advise you against chirping "I told you so" just yet.

There was a time when such a performance as Moran gave in his first start would have meant something.

In the early days of your career, it would have meant that Manager Casey Stengel had found a pitcher he could count on for a share of victories the next season and would keep on improving until he became a standout.

But that era has long passed.

It's worse instead of better the average young pitcher becomes as time marches on these days, as you've probably learned from your minor league managerial experience.

BAGBY FAILED TO GO

Last year, Jim Bagby was the rookie of the season, turning in 15 victories for the Red Sox. Now he's in Little Rock. At the same time, Johnny VanderMeer was writing baseball history with the Reds by pitching two successive no-hit games. He's a forgotten man at the moment. And then there's Dick Errickson of the Bees who, incidentally, starts against the Cards today. He was another freshman sensation of '38. He's had his troubles getting anybody out this year.

Neither the Cards nor Cubs have looked like champions on their last visits to Boston. The Cubs can't hit, the Cards can't field.

What the Cards need most of all is a guy like the Maranville in his prime. A smart, inspiring fighter to settle them down, just as you steadied the Cards of '28. They couldn't be more jittery.

But they don't make Maranvilles any more.

I hear, though, that you still play occasionally. Why don't you pull a Stengel and sell yourself back to St. Louis? Maybe you could pull them through yet.

Johnny Cooney could hardly palm himself off as a son of yours and he's merely collected a dozen hits in the past three days.

It's really a soft racket, "Rab." Much easier than managing in the minors.

B's Recall Ross, Buy 4 Players From Evansville

The Bees have recalled outfielder Chet Ross from Evansville and have purchased four other players from that Three I League club, according to an announcement by Sec. John Quinn.

The purchased players are Pitchers Joe Callahan and Al Viegel, Infielder John Barkley and Outfielder Chet Clemens.

Ross, who was with Hartford last year, is hitting .310 and has knocked in over 100 runs.

Callahan is an East Boston boy who formerly pitched for Northeastern University. He's having a great year with a record of 17-8. Viegel has a 9-3 card.

Clemens, noted for his speed, is clicking the agate at a .308 gait and Barkley, who's played short, second and third, is hitting .268.

The Evansville club is within a game or so of first place in the Three I League and is next to certain to get in the play-offs. These five players will report to the Swarm when finished with post-season competition, providing that's over before mid-September.

Red Sox Recall Dozen Farmers

The Red Sox said today that the following players will be recalled from the minors:

From Louisville—Pitchers Ted Olson, Woody Rich and Monty Weaver, Infielder Paul Campbell and Outfielders Fabian Gaffke, Chet Morgan and Stanley Spence.

From Little Rock—Pitcher Jim Bagby and Infielder Tommy Irwin.

From Scranton—Pitchers Alex Petrushkin, Chic Sayles and Frank Dazzo.

All will be at Sarasota in the spring. Some may join the Sox during September.

Verberly Drives At Topsfield

Joe Verberly, Round Brook, N. J., big car auto race champion, who has recovered from a crack-up in a race at Avon, Ct., last month, will be among the 15 already entered for the Labor Day races at the Topsfield Fair Grounds next Monday.

The New Jersey driver is well known to fans of New England having won at Topsfield Memorial Day and July 4th, and for his victories at Keene, N. H.

Verberly boasts the fastest race car in the East and will be seeking to lower the record for the Topsfield track, which big car drivers say is the fastest in this section.

LEFEBVRE HURLING FOR RED SOX

CLEVELAND, Aug. 29—Trailing the Yankees 13 games and with little hope of catching the leaders, Manager Joe Cronin is trying out one of his farm breds against the Indians today. Wilfrid Lefebvre, recently recalled from Louisville is slated to make his debut in big time for 1939.

The former Holy Cross star has shown to advantage in the Class A league and seems about fit to break into the big top this time to stay. Though the Red Sox have come ten games to play with the Yanks, it's hardly probable that they can win enough of them to catch the fast traveling Yankees.

In yesterday's encounter Ted Williams hit one of Mel Harder's three-two pitches over the right field wall and gave the Sox a 6—5 win over Cleveland. The homer, Williams' 26th of the season, came in the eighth with Joe Vosmik, who walked, and Jimmy Foxx, who had singled, on base.

Up to that time the Indians straight victory, and Harder en route to his seventh straight. In the seventh Hal Trosky had hit his 22d homer, with Ben Chapman abase. That headed Eldon Auker for the showers, but he was the official winner.

Umpire Bill McGowan banished Johnny Peacock in the sixth when Jeff Heath slid around the Boston catcher and scored after Ken Keltner had tapped out.

HEATH IN TROUBLE

Jeff Heath, Cleveland Indian outfielder, punched a remonstrating fan after fouling out in the ninth inning, and thereby put himself "on the spot" for the second time in as many days.

"The guy had been riding us all afternoon," the stuffily built player told newemen who had seen him chased from the field yesterday for angrily tossing his bat into a box seat after striking out.

Vice President C. C. Slapnicka said he would consider what action to take after talking to Manager Oscar Vitt. The latter, however, asserted he knew nothing of the affair until informed by a spectator.

Heath said the fan rushed down to the railing as he walked to the dugout and assailed him with obscene language.

"I walked over and punched him," the 23-year-old outfielder asserted. "I can't remember where I hit him but I hurt my hand. It was just another blunder in a bad season that has been full of mistakes."
